Guide to Drawing Up Bylaws for Clusters of Excellence

Disclaimer: The English translation of this document is provided for informational purposes. In the event of a discrepancy between the English and the German versions, the German text takes precedence.
Preliminary note

The exclusive purpose of the bylaws of a Cluster of Excellence (EXC) is to regulate internal relations within the Cluster of Excellence. The relations of the EXC to the applicant university/universities and to other parties involved (external relations) are only partially addressed in this guide. They do touch on key concerns of the university, however. For this reason, the recommendation is that adoption of the bylaws should be preceded by an internal university dialogue in which such concerns are jointly clarified.

Relations between the EXC or the applicant university/universities (grant recipient) and the Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG, German Research Foundation) are governed by the DFG’s funding guidelines and forms:

This guide to drawing up bylaws does not claim to be binding or complete. It provides support for Clusters of Excellence in defining the structures and processes required to manage the research project. The provisions formulated herein are merely suggestions that are to be fleshed out by the EXC together with the applicant university/universities and may be expanded on. Internal provisions of the EXC and those with an external impact (also within the university) can be combined or laid down in separate sets of regulations. Here it is important to take account of legal provisions such as those arising from state higher education acts and other regulations, including the internal provisions of the university. In the case of multiple applicant universities or multiple spokespersons, the bylaws are to be adapted accordingly.
Bylaws of the Cluster of Excellence <“Title”> of <applicant university/universities>

Preamble
The participation of numerous researchers and their affiliation to different departments/faculties of a university or a non-university research institution (as is frequently the case) necessitate a formal basis for the organisation of cooperation, and this is laid down in these Bylaws. The participants of the Cluster of Excellence (EXC) do not wish to create a legally independent entity of any kind, either through these Bylaws or otherwise, but only to define the internal structures and processes required for managing the research project.

In consultation with the management of the Cluster of Excellence <“Title”> and after prior consultation with the DFG, the <university body responsible> of <applicant university/universities> adopts the following Bylaws with the consent of the heads of the participating institutions:

§ 1 Status within <abbreviated title of the applicant university/universities>.

1 The Cluster of Excellence is a legally dependent <institution>1 of <applicant university/universities> and bears the title <“Title”>. In addition to <abbreviated title of the applicant university/universities>, the following institutions are also involved as applicant university/universities in <abbreviated title of the Cluster of Excellence> <>

2 The managing university is <abbreviated title of the managing university>.
